

PRESIDENT GIVES UNION, OWNERS 2 ALTERNATIVES

Washington, Nov. 19 (AP)—President Roosevelt, declaring that work in captive coal mines must recommence, called upon steel company and union executives today to maintain a status quo on the issue of a "closed shop" for the period of the national emergency or to submit this issue to arbitration, agreeing to accept in advance any decision reached.

The Chief Executive in identical letters laid his alternatives before John L. Lewis, president of the United Mine Workers; Benjamin Fairless, president of United States Steel, Eugene Grace, president of Bethlehem Steel, and Frank Purnell, president of Youngstown Sheet and Tube.

"For the common good, for the maintenance of defense production," Mr. Roosevelt wrote, "it is imperative that one of these two alternatives be chosen and faithfully performed."

The President wrote as sympathy strikes in commercial coal mines were spreading rapidly during the day.

Mr. Roosevelt asked acceptance of one or the other alternative of the steel and union representatives as "patriotic Americans."

50,000 Soldiers Ready For Duty

Washington, Nov. 19 (AP)—Fifty thousand United States soldiers are waiting and ready for orders if President Roosevelt decides to use the Army to take over the strike-bound captive coal mines.

An adviser to the President said that number—about one soldier to each union miner in the affected pits—had been decided on "as adequate to protect lives and property without creating the impression of trying to frighten the workers with show of force."

The troops would be equipped with their usual arms," this source said, "including these as pistols, rifles, machine guns and "possibly some bombs."

Tank and artillery units would be purposely eliminated from the occupation forces, he added, "because it is the Army's intention to move in not as an enemy of the workers but as a friend, not to deprive the laborers of their rights but to assure them of a peaceful continuance of work as behind-the-lines soldiers in defense of their country."

17 'Sympathy' Strikes In Pa.

Pittsburgh, Nov. 19 (AP)—Walkouts in sympathy with the United Mine Workers strike for a union shop in the steel company-owned captive coal mines closed 17 additional commercial mines in Pennsylvania today, bringing the total to 37.

Industry spokesmen, estimating the closing of the commercial mines in the state had cut off daily production of upwards of 100,000 tons and thrown into idleness approximately 22,000 men, said more sympathy strikes were expected.

In addition to the commercial mines, which sell on the open market, the four "captive" mines of the Jones and Laughlin Steel corporation and one of the Duquesne Light company's two "captive" mines were halted by sympathy strikes. Both of these companies have granted the union shop, requiring their employees to become members of the UMW within a specified period of employment.

Non-Strikers Checked

Meanwhile, the UMW reinforced picket lines in Fayette county, center of the "captive" mine field, checking for sympathy strikes.

Thanksgiving Holiday For Gettysburg Pupils

Gettysburg public schools will observe November 27 as Thanksgiving and will enjoy a two-day Thanksgiving vacation, Superintendent L. C. Keefeauver said today. Schools will close at 2:30 o'clock Wednesday afternoon, November 26, and will not re-open until Monday, December 1.

Tuesday's announcement concerning Thanksgiving observance in the local public schools was incorrect.

November 27 will be observed generally in Gettysburg as Thanksgiving Day. The post office here will be closed on that day but rural carriers will cover their routes. The rural mailmen will have their holiday on Thursday of this week, although the post office will be open and regular city service will be maintained.

POSTMASTER GIVES TIPS FOR CHRISTMAS MAIL

In connection with special arrangements by the Post Office department for handling the annual flood of Christmas mail, Postmaster C. A. Williams today asked the cooperation of patrons of the local post office in preparing their Christmas mailing matter.

Besides the standard appeal issued each year to mail Christmas packages early, the postmaster urged local patrons to pre-pay postage on all mail matter and to address all pieces of mail "plainly and completely in ink, giving street address or box or rural route number whenever possible." The sender's return address should always be given in the upper left corner of the address side. Tags should not be used unless necessary in which case a copy of the address and return card should be inclosed in case the tag becomes lost. Mr. Williams pointed out.

Articles should be packed in strong durable containers and should be wrapped securely. Mr. Williams said packages should not be sealed excepting when they bear a printed label or endorsement reading: "Contents, merchandise—Postmaster: This parcel may be opened for postal inspection if necessary." together with the name and address of the sender, as sealed parcels not so labeled or endorsed are subject to postage at the letter rates. Packages containing perishable articles should be so marked.

The size limit placed upon packages for mailing is 100 inches in length and girth combined. The weight limit on all parcel post matter in all zones is 70 pounds.

Christmas seals or stickers should not be placed on the address side of mail, the postmaster reminded and suggested that time may be saved if stamps to be used on Christmas packages are bought in advance thus avoiding the necessity of standing in the long lines that extend almost constantly from the stamp windows during the Christmas rush.

Postmaster Williams also advised that valuable articles to be sent through the mail be insured.

Parcels weighing more than eight ounces cannot be mailed at street letter boxes but must be taken to the post office.

Mrs. Curtis Golden, Gardner, and Mrs. Ira S. Smith, Aspers, have been admitted as patients. Those discharged were Mrs. Charles Ford, West Middle street, and Laban Hershey, Gettysburg R. D.

78 Years Ago And . . . Gettysburg Address

FOURSCORE and seven years ago our fathers brought forth on this continent a new nation, conceived in liberty, and dedicated to the proposition that all men are created equal. Now we are engaged in a great Civil war, testing whether that nation, or any nation so conceived and so dedicated can long endure. We are met on a great battlefield of that war. We have come to dedicate a portion of that field, as a final resting place for those who here gave their lives that that nation might live. It is altogether fitting and proper that we should do this. But in a larger sense we cannot dedicate, we cannot consecrate, we cannot hallow this ground. The brave men, living and dead, who struggled here, have consecrated it far above our poor power to add or detract. The world will little note, nor long remember, what we say here; but it can never forget what they did here. It is for us the living, rather, to be dedicated here to the unfinished work which they who fought here have thus far so nobly advanced. It is rather for us to be dedicated to the great task remaining before us—that from these honored dead we take increased devotion to that cause for which they gave the last full measure of devotion—that we here highly resolve that these dead shall not have died in vain—that this nation, under God, shall have a new birth of freedom—and that government of the people, by the people, and for the people, shall not perish from the earth.

The pew (shown above) in the Gettysburg Presbyterian church was occupied by President Abraham Lincoln during a patriotic program following the delivery of his address dedicating the National cemetery on November 19, 1863. John Burns, civilian hero of the battle of Gettysburg, sat with the President during the service.

The pew in the local church auditorium is marked by tablets and an American flag.

Today In Gettysburg . . . Lincoln Honored

MEMBERS of the Lincoln Fellowship of Pennsylvania gathered here today to mark the seventy-eighth anniversary of the dedication of the National cemetery and the delivery of the Gettysburg address with their annual luncheon meeting at the Hotel Gettysburg.

About 50 persons were in the group which was presided over by Dr. Henry W. A. Hanson, president of Gettysburg college and president of the Fellowship.

The event attracted students of Lincoln and historians from many sections of the state. Members of the local service clubs joined the group for the luncheon session by special invitation.

An account of the events that took place on Lincoln's journey to Gettysburg, his two-day stay here, the events at the cemetery and the return journey was given by Dr. Robert Fortenbaugh, head of the department of history at Gettysburg college. Doctor Fortenbaugh was asked to substitute for Congressman Dondero of Michigan who was unable to leave Washington because of the tense strike situation.

Following the luncheon the Fellowship will conduct its annual business meeting and elect officers for the coming year. Future activities of the organization will be considered.

Later this afternoon the members of the group will make their annual pilgrimage to the National cemetery to hear the reading of the Lincoln address. Judge Michael Musmanno of Pittsburgh is scheduled to give the reading that will conclude the simple ceremony at the spot where Lincoln stood 78 years ago.

The Fellowship activity was the only local celebration of the anniversary. Flags flew from Center Square lampposts. In a special proclamation earlier in the week Burgess C. A. Heiges declared this to be a local holiday.

NAZIS BOMB 2 SOVIET CITIES; REDS ADVANCE

[By the Associated Press]

Adolf Hitler's high command pictured the German armies as lunging forward once more on the eastern front today, executing "new and successful" attacks, while the Russians declared they had crushed Nazi attempts to pierce Soviet lines north and south of the 200-mile Moscow defense arc.

A Nazi military spokesman said German bombers raked both Moscow and Leningrad during the night and left spreading fires in the Red capital.

A bulletin from the fuhrer's headquarters reported that 10,000 Russian prisoners had been captured the past three days, but it gave no details of the new push.

Soviet front-line dispatches said two German infantry regiments, supported by tanks and armored cars, had been driven off with bloody losses in repeated attempts to storm across the upper Volga river in the Kalinin sector, 95 miles north of Moscow, and the Red army command gave this general summary of the nearly five-months-old struggle:

Reds Retake Some Villages

"Our troops are beating off the enemy attacks and destroying equipment and annihilating the manpower of the Germans."

On the southern (Ukraine) front, the Russians said Marshal Semyon Timoshenko's forces had recaptured a number of villages and advanced from four to 12 miles—presumably in the fiercely-contested battle sector around Rostov-on-Don.

Soviet accounts declared that Field Marshal Ewald Von Kleist's southern armies were suffering severe casualties in attempts to make "rapid gains" in the Donets river basin.

In the Crimea campaign, the German high command said Nazi bombers violently attacked Russia's Great Black Sea naval base at Sevastopol, blasting docks, munitions dumps and a ship in the harbor, but there was still no indication of a direct land assault against the stronghold.

The British radio said Russian troops in the Kerch sector had been "safely evacuated to the Caucasus, along with their complete equipment and war material."

Officially, Russia has not yet recognized the German claim to the capture of Kerch, but the Moscow radio acknowledged that Axis invasion forces estimated at 90,000 Continued on Page 2

Weygand Rumored Out As Vichy Consul

Vichy, Unoccupied France, Nov. 19 (AP)—After three days of conferences between Chief of State Marshal Petain and General Maxime Weygand it was persistently rumored in Vichy today that Weygand will leave his post as pro-consul for the Petain government in North Africa.

U. S. Ambassador William D. Leahy conferred urgently with Petain during the day.

Official circles refused either to confirm or deny reports of the curtailment of Weygand's authority in North Africa pending an expected official announcement which may be made tomorrow.

Crew Flees Odenwald As Capture Nears

Members of the crew of the German motorship Odenwald, captured in Atlantic equatorial waters by the U.S. warship, Omaha, attempt to flee the ship as a boarding party (foreground) approaches. As the boarding party reached the side of the ship, which was flying the Stars and Stripes, there were two explosions and the crew said it would sink in 20 or 30 minutes. This picture was made by a member of the boarding party. (Another picture of the Odenwald appears on page two.)

WITTER FREED OF MANSLAUGHTER IN THREE DEATHS

Witter was found not guilty in a verdict returned two hours and forty minutes after the case went to the jury. All costs in the case are placed upon the defendant.

The William S. Witter manslaughter case went to the jury for decision this morning at 11:45 o'clock while a jury was selected for trial of the last criminal case to go before a jury at the current session.

Witter, who resides in New Chester, is charged in the deaths of three New Chester youths who received fatal injuries in an accident involving Witter's car on the New Oxford-New Chester road the night of September 26.

Only the defendant and his brother, Samuel, survived from the party of five youths who rode in the car. Earl Cassett, George T. Groupe and Joseph Wagner, all of New Chester, died from accident injuries. Commonwealth witnesses named William Witter as the driver of the light roadster that was wrecked after zig-zagging along the highway, mounting a 25-foot bank and then rolling back to the highway.

A new element in the case was introduced Tuesday afternoon when the left front wheel of the wrecked car, reported to have been deflated after the crash, was exhibited in court partially inflated and eliminating the possibility that a blow-out had caused the wreck. The Witter boys had only hazy recollections of the mishap.

The jury in the case follows: Carl F. Black, Gardner R. 1; Elmer Bubb, East Berlin R. D.; Mrs. Sadie Hartman, Cashtown R. D.; Russell Hartman, Fairfield R. 2; Guy Little, Gettysburg R. 4; Walter T. Mehring, Gettysburg R. 2; Paul Moul, Abbotstown R. D.; Jeremiah Nace, Abbotstown R. 1; Harry C. Pitzer, Aspers R. 1; Ralph Rice, Biglerville R. D.; Harvey Walker, Hanover R. D., and Roy Walker, Gettysburg R. 2.

After the Witter case went to the jury, a jury was selected to try Irvin H. Weisner, Aspers, on a serious charge. Civil suits are next for trial with sentence court slated for Saturday.

After deliberating about 50 minutes Tuesday afternoon a verdict of guilty was returned against Chester Wagaman, 18, Hanover, on charges of burglary and malicious mischief at the Delone Catholic high school at the edge of Hanover.

MASONIC CHIEFS INSPECT 'FIELD

High officials in Masonic circles in the United States lunched at the Hotel Gettysburg at noon today with a group of 40 Masons from Harrisburg, Gettysburg, other Adams county communities, and specially invited guests from Hanover, Waynesboro and other nearby towns and cities.

The group included Melvin Maynard Johnson, sovereign grand commander of the Supreme Council of the Northern Masonic Jurisdiction of the United States; Harry A. Pollard, grand sword bearer of the Supreme Council and Grand Commander of the Grand Commandery of the United States, and John S. Wallace, deputy for the state of Pennsylvania.

The official came here from Harrisburg where the Harrisburg Consistory Reunion is in progress from Monday to Friday. Harrisburg Consistory officers were included in the group.

After the luncheon meeting the visiting officials toured the battlefield.

Dr. Eugene Elgin, East Berlin, was in charge of local arrangements.

The national defense program for the county lodges was discussed by George D. Sheely of New Oxford, and A. K. Stock and David Sheely, both of Littlestown.

The next meeting of the Past Presidents' association will be held January 19 at New Oxford. The meeting closed with the singing of "Blest Be the Tie That Binds" and the Lord's prayer.

21 Fire Companies Have 7 Miles Of Hose; 2,405 Members

AN imposing statement of the equipment of the 21 volunteer fire companies with their 2,405 members, more than seven miles of hose and 24 pumpers with a total capacity of throwing more than 2,000 gallons of water per minute was just being compiled by James B. Tamen, president of the Gettysburg company, with the assistance of the county fire chiefs.

The figures for the entire county show that there are 1,700 active firemen and 350 apparatus drivers on the rolls of the 21 companies. A total of 275 men is qualified as pump operators and another 645 are booster tank operators. More than 500 are able to operate large or small chemical tanks.

RELAY pumping can be handled by 342 county firemen, while there are 119 firemen trained in state schools in rescue work, fire prevention and in high ladder work. The companies boast 260 trained for police. Eighty-four members of the companies are acetylene welders and 206 are trained in first aid work with 184 of them holding first aid certificates. The survey shows that on the average 945 firemen are available to answer day calls and 762 for night calls.

The 21 fire companies own 30 pieces of fire fighting apparatus, including 24 pumpers. There are four service trucks, one flood light car and one chemical wagon. The combined pumpers have a capacity of 9,700 gallons per minute to which may be added the 3,000 gallon per minute capacity of the 24 booster tanks. A total of 1,580 feet of ladders is in use by county companies.

ENOUGH hose to reach from Gettysburg to Biglerville is owned by the fire companies of Adams county, the report shows. Of the total of about seven miles of hose, 24,500 feet are of 2½-inch diameter, 620 feet of more than three-inch size; 8,850 feet of 1½-inch hose and 3,000 feet of one-inch.

There are 14 large chemical tanks with capacities up to 50 gallons and 265 of the 2½-gallon size extinguishers. Nineteen small foamite units are in use and one large 60-gallon foamite tank. Thirty gas masks and twenty-three first aid kits are on hand. There are 100 large and small dry powder units.

Mechanical equipment includes 11 big jacks of more than 5-ton capacity; 32 axes, 28 picks, 43 pike poles, four tin cutting tools and 18 5-gallon spray guns for fighting grass fires.

The survey was made for the state council of National Defense, the office of the state fire marshal and the State Firemen's association. It will be used in compiling similar data for the entire state of Pennsylvania.

PRESIDENT GIVES UNION, OWNERS 2 ALTERNATIVES

The movement of non-striking into the mines. Union leaders estimated fewer than 500 men entered the 14 Fayette county mines of the H. C. Frick company, U.S. Steel subsidiary, which normally employ 13,600.

In keeping with a promise to Fayette county authorities, the UMW picket lines—numbering as many as 125 at a Frick mine in Grindstone—were generally orderly. One automobile carrying non-striking was stoned at Frick's Ralph mine but no other disturbance was reported.

Non-striking again reported for work at the Bethlehem Steel company's Rosedale mine in Johnstown, the company saying the situation was the same as Monday and Tuesday when police estimated 200 to 325 entered the pit.

The latest commercial mines hit by sympathy walkouts included seven more big mines of the Pittsburgh Coal company, nation's largest commercial producer, which already had three mines down. Ten commercial mines operated by seven companies were closed in Cambria county alone.

C.I.O. SUPPORTS PHILIP MURRAY

Detroit, Nov. 19 (AP)—Delegates to the C.I.O.'s national convention turned to domestic problems today after a dramatic session in which Philip Murray stood forth as their organization's No. 1 man, in fact as well as in title.

Murray, C.I.O. president, put his leadership to test yesterday with a stirring personal appeal for all-out endorsement of President Roosevelt's foreign aid policy in the face of unspoken opposition from a group of adherents of John L. Lewis.

The acting chairman ruled the standing vote on a resolution embodying Murray's principles was unanimous, although delegates from Lewis' striking United Mine Workers of America and the United Construction Workers Organizing Committee headed by his brother, A. D. Lewis, remained stolidly in their seats, with few exceptions, while the vote was taken.

The shaggy-browed Lewis, founder-in-chief of the C.I.O., was absent—pre-occupied with a union shop strike in the captive mines. He advocated the C.I.O. presidency to Murray a year ago, but retains the presidency of the miners' union.

The resolution coupled a pledge of all-out backing of the administration's foreign policy with a denunciation of Charles A. Lindbergh and a plea for all possible assistance to Great Britain, the Soviet Union and China.

PICKETING WITHOUT VIOLENCE PLEDGED

Gary, W. Va., Nov. 19 (AP)—Picketing without violence was pledged today by United Mine Workers officials after state police searched automobiles en route to six "Big Steel" captive mines and arrested 10 men.

Police Superintendent John W. Bosworth said pistols and smoke bombs were found in the men's possession.

Shortly after the arrests two representatives of the UMWA, Charles Payne and William Lester, conferred with Bosworth and the latter then announced.

"These boys are to be responsible for any violence. I have agreed we will not molest any peaceful pickets but there must be no guns, no bombs and no whiskey."

The troopers moved into this southern West Virginia coal town last night, in the wake of disturbances which resulted in the wounding of two men and numerous fist battles.

CIVILIAN USERS OF STEEL TO SUFFER

New York, Nov. 19 (AP)—Civilian users of steel will be the first hit and longest sufferer from any curtailment in producing operations as a result of the lack of coal to run the mills, "Iron Age" said today in discussing the current strike in the captive mines in its weekly review of the steel industry.

The publication said in part: "Defense plants, because of the importance of keeping them operating at full capacity, are certain to get the necessary steel as long as there is any left to ship. It is the civilian product plant, consuming steel, which will be the first to be hit if the coal strike continues."

"For the first time, Mr. Lewis seemed to be ready in the name of the closed shop to shut off material needed for the already diminishing flow of refrigerators, stoves, washing machines and other peacetime products to the public."

NON-STRIKER USES NEW TECHNIQUE

Uniontown, Pa., Nov. 19 (AP)—A non-striking coal miner introduced a new technique in cracking a picket line today, abandoning the usual approach of foot or in an automobile.

Astride a horse, he rode down a Fayette county highway at a canter and then swung sharply into a narrow road leading to the U. S. Steel Corporation's "captive" mine at Grindstone.

UMW pickets, 125 strong, scrambled to the sides of the road and the rider reached the mine safely.

Appeal Prepared In Teacher Ouster

Bethlehem, Pa., Nov. 19 (AP)—An appeal today was being prepared from the city school board's order ousting Mrs. Gertrude Koller Brown, an expectant mother, as school dental hygienist in a move which her attorney said was without precedent in the state.

The board's order on a 6-3 decision came after a public hearing Monday night. It discharged Mrs. Brown for "persistent neglect and willful violation of the school code." It was retroactive to September 3, when she failed to assume the duties of her new contract.

Emmanuel Scoblonko, Mrs. Brown's counsel, said if Dr. Francis B. Haas, state superintendent of Public Instruction, sustained the dismissal it would mean "that a school board may discharge any teacher because of illness."

Scoblonko asserted: "I don't think motherhood constitutes willful neglect of duty. I know nothing which makes it wrongdoing to become a mother. Is she incompetent because of that fact?" She notified the board in July that in September she would not be able to serve.

troops had cracked Kerch's defenses "at a cost of colossal losses."

Meanwhile, Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden briefly and cryptically disclosed that Britain was taking "military and naval action" against Finland, Rumania and Hungary.

Eden refused to elaborate, however, and informed sources interpreted the statement as referring mainly to British blockade of the countries.

Possibly forecasting a major offensive move, the war office in London announced a shakeup of the imperial general staff in which the trend of the changes was to put younger generals in key positions. General Sir Alan "Wizard" Brooke, 58, a specialist on military mechanization, gunnery and anti-aircraft defenses, was designated chief of the imperial general staff, to replace General Sir John G. Dill on December 25. General Dill was made a field marshal and given the governorship of Bombay, the latter effective when the term of Sir Roger Lumley expires.

Major General A. E. Nye, at 45 one of the youngest generals Britain has known, will be General Brooke's vice chief of the imperial general staff. Major General Nye has come up from the ranks and was elevated to the rank of general only a little more than a year ago.

With Japan tensely awaiting the result of talks in Washington between Special Envoy Saburo Kurusu and United States officials, another border outbreak was reported from Manchukuo. Domei, Japanese news agency said one Russian soldier was killed and two were captured in a clash of Manchukuo frontier guards with a Soviet detachment which allegedly crossed the border Sunday about 24 miles west of Manchul.

Barker Picks Cornell Over Penn; College Must Stop Aerial Attack

MINNESOTA AND NOTRE DAME ARE FAVORED ALSO

By HERB BARKER
New York, Nov. 19 (AP)—Waiting for the roof to fall in as usual, this corner does its guessing early on this week's double-barreled football program.

Thursday, Nov. 20

North Carolin-Virginia: The Cavaliers, led by Bill Dudley, have much the better record but the competition hasn't been so keen. Still, Virginia.

Georgetown - Manhattan: Can't figure this Manhattan outfit. They will probably be close but we'll take Georgetown.

Wake Forest-George Washington: The Colonials can't find the scoring combination. Therefore, Wake Forest.

Virginia Military-Virginia Tech: Tossing the coin . . . Virginia Military.

Rutgers-Brown: Should be safe for Brown.

Washington & Lee-Maryland: Not much to choose. W. and L.

Richmond-William & Mary: William & Mary looks good.

Davidson-Citadel: On comparative scores (the Little Pixies), Citadel.

Also Denver over Colorado; Utah over Utah State, and Wyoming over Colorado Mines.

Saturday, Nov. 22

Penn-Cornell: Tough to guess. Penn has the better record but the Quakers no longer seem up to their early-season form. A flier on Cornell.

Minnesota-Wisconsin: Wisconsin can score but the Badger defense has been sieve-like. Can't see the Gophers blowing this one. Minnesota.

Notre Dame-Southern California: Nothing in the records to hearten the Trojans. Taking Notre Dame. Michigan-Ohio State: No better than second place in the big ten apparently at stake. This may be the best game of the day. Michigan.

Harvard-Yale: An upset of earth-shaking intensity if Yale can do more than hold the score within reasonable bounds. Harvard. Princeton-Navy: With the Yale game behind them, doubt if the Tigers can work up the necessary enthusiasm. Navy.

Kansas - Missouri: Kansas has pulled two big surprises already this season but it would be a near-miracle if the Jawhaws took this. Missouri.

Vanderbilt-Alabama: Don't think the Commodores can stem the tide. Alabama.

Georgia-Dartmouth: Looks like simply a long ride for the invading Dartmouths. Georgia.

North Carolina State-Duke: Duke to finish unbeaten, untied and invincible.

Oregon State-Montana: One step closer to Pasadena for Oregon State. Washington-Oregon: Not easy. Picking Washington.

Army-West Virginia: Could be a surprise, for the Mountaineers are improving. A not-too-confident ballot for Army.

Columbia-Colgate: Columbia was battered badly in its past two games and this vote for Colgate is based on the assumption the Lions won't be able to recover physically in time.

Fordham-St. Mary's: The Rams have had plenty of time to forget the Pitt debacle. Fordham.

Holy Cross-Temple: Both in-and-outers. Therefore, out of the hat, Holy Cross.

Pitt-Penn State: Can Pitt stay "up" three weeks in a row? Guessing that the answer is "yes," we'll take Pitt.

Villanova-Auburn: Probably close. On a sheer guess, Villanova.

Northwestern-Illinois: No possible selection but unlucky Northwestern.

Indiana-Purdue: Anything can happen here. One vote for Billy Hillenbrand and Indiana.

Nebraska-Iowa: Close enough. Iowa.

Iowa State-Kansas State: Taking Kansas State.

Oklahoma-Marquette: Ditto Oklahoma.

Southern Methodist-Baylor: A nod to S. M. U.'s Mustangs.

Texas Christian-Rice: Ditto Texas Christian.

Florida-Georgia Tech: Dangerous.

Georgia Tech, doubtfully.

Kentucky-Tennessee: Like Tennessee.

Mississippi - Arkansas: Stringing along with Mississippi.

Furman-Clemson: Taking Clemson.

U. C. L. A. - Santa Clara: Santa Clara.

Skipping over the chalklines otherwise: Boston college over Boston university; Michigan State over Ohio Wesleyan; Tulsa over Drake; St. Louis over Wichita; Detroit over Creighton; South Carolina over Miami; Washington State over Gonzaga; Idaho over Montana State; Brigham Young over Colorado State.

LONGEST RUN

Philadelphia, (AP)—Andy Tomasi's 68-yard return of a punt against Georgetown is the longest such run in Temple's history.

Bullet Lineman

Two hundred pounds of trouble for all opponents is Paul Dress, burly junior tackle, of the Gettysburg Bullets. Dress, who formerly played for John Harris high school, in Harrisburg, is one of the most dependable men on the Battlefield team. A sure tackler with plenty of stamina, he is capable of sixty-minute ball.

SPORTS ROUNDUP

By Hugh S. Fullerton, Jr.

New York, Nov. 19 (AP)—One thing we can be thankful for is that we don't have the job of trying to pick a successor to Bob Zupple at Illinois. . . . So, free of charge, we'll offer the suggestion that the Illinois get either Red Grange or Don Peden—the best player and the best coach Zup ever turned out. . . . Even then, they may have to sign up Jimmy Conzelman to fill in for the Dutchman on the banquet circuit. . . . Typical of Zup was his explanation to Columbus writers before the Ohio State game: "The reason we haven't been doing so well is because we've been playing on flat fields. My boys are so fast they need banked turns. The way it's been they just fall down."

RED FACE ROUNDUP

Out in Kansas, Roy Dyer had been promising the missus a duck dinner nearly every day since the season opened, but he never was able to make good. Then one day Mrs. Dyer went into the backyard and pulled a fat teal out of a drainage ditch, which was so narrow that the duck apparently couldn't fly out after getting into it. So when Mr. Dyer came in from hunting that day, the duck was roasted to a turn and Roy was all burned up.

FOOTBALL FRICASSEE

Season's first "bowl" games come up tomorrow at New Orleans. . . . It's the "turkey bowl" battle between a couple of sandlot teams which its 19-year-old promoter, Allen Lacombe, has built up into an event that draws 10,000 fans. . . . Nick Roberts will pitch his annual Yale barn party at Montclair, N. J., December 6 and he'll have a hard time calling it a "win, lose or draw" affair this time. . . . Don McCallister, the Norwich U. Coach, is in town stumping the exports by explaining that what makes a halfback like Red Grange and his own Walter Domina greater than most is "psycho-somatic perceptory sense," which he describes as the ability to visualize the relative positions of moving objects as they'll be on arrival at a certain point. . . . John Papa, sports ed. of the Creighton U. "Creightonian," has labeled Moon Mullin's booting "the cosmic punt" because it goes out of the world. . . . Leon Cooke, Northwestern tackle, broke his wrist the day it was announced he had won a national penmanship contest.

TODAY'S GUEST STAR

C. M. Gibbs, Baltimore Sun: "Alva Bradley of the Cleveland Indians says night baseball is a novelty and therefore he doesn't want to give his fans too much of it. This, at least is consistent. The annual swoons of his ball club are no novelty so he keeps giving the fans more of the same every season."

SERVICE DEPT.

The Fort Dix (N.J.) basketball team, coached and led by Pvt. Ed. Sadowski, who used to star for Seton Hall, must play its entire schedule on the road this winter. The camp doesn't have adequate indoor facilities for games. . . . Lieut. Col. George L. Simpson, who commands the 125th Infantry at Camp Livingston, La., took time out from his Army duties to officiate at the Pitt-Minnesota and Iowa-Purdue games this season. . . . In camp he runs classes for officials in the 32nd Division League. . . . Clint Frank, who was an all-America back when Yale was producing all Americas, is a lieutenant in the Air Force at Goodfellow Field (Tex.).

CLEANING THE CUFF

Louisville may be the next stop on the pro hockey circuit. Folks there are talking about building an ice rink. . . . The Lambert Trophy committee, which gives an annual award to the east's leading team, has just discovered that Catholic U. isn't playing football this year. . . . Detroit bowlers recently turned in three perfect games in four days. . . . Frankness note: At the end of the new Colorado basketball roster, Bill Day added: "Players may be dropped and added in December following quarterly examinations."

NEW STANDS

Bloomsburg, Pa. (AP)—The Bloomsburg high school athletic association paid out $1,828.55 this fall for new football equipment and erection of bleachers.

TOUGH LUCK

Carlisle, Pa. (AP)—In six games Dickinson college rolled up 66 first downs, but scored only 16 points. The opposition scored 75 points on 53 first downs.

Ted Meier Picks 'Em

[By the Associated Press]
Cornell has a great pass attack, but Penn has a great defense for the same. We like Penn in what promises to be a duplicate of last year's 22-20 thriller.

Auburn at Villanova—Those green uniforms Clipper Smith trotted out against Detroit seem to be just what the Wildcats needed to beat the Tigers. Villanova.

Penn State at Pitt—Pitt is riding high, but that Pitt stadium jinx has to end sometime for the Nittany Lions. Penn State.

Lafayette at Lehigh—Going off the deep end and taking Lehigh. The Engineers have a better team than the record shows.

Bucknell at Albright—Albright. The Lions are well rested after taking last week off.

Gettysburg at Dickinson—Another traditional battle. Gettysburg power more than offsets Dickinson's passing.

Upsala at Muhlenberg—The Mules have been inconsistent, but should beat their New Jersey opponents.

LaSalle at Penn Military—The Cadets are primed to take this one.

Temple at Holy Cross—Temple has the stuff, but apparently their season ended against Villanova. Holy Cross.

Geneva at Bethany—Bethany hasn't scored a touchdown yet this season. Geneva.

Lock Haven at Shippensburg—Shippensburg. Very close.

Swarthmore at Drexel—Drexel.

DICKINSON TO PIN HOPES ON REHOR, PASSER

DOUG REHORE

Doug Rehore, brilliant Dickinson college sophomore from Hill school, is the nation's No. 1 small-college passer, according to the latest figures released by the American Football Statistical bureau, of Seattle, Washington. The Red Devils are counting on his right arm pitching them to victory over the Gettysburg college eleven Saturday at Carlisle.

Rehore, already hailed by opposing coaches as one of the outstanding passers in the country, has completed 89 of 179 aeriels for a total of 946 yards to far surpass his nearest opponent, Tummervik, of Pacific Lutheran, who has completed 45 out of 77 passes for a total of 898 yards. In total offense, passing and rushing, Rehore is ranked fifth with a total of 1,004 yards.

The unusual honor being the nation's leading passer receiver goes to Rehore's teammate, Len Supulski, senior end from Kingston, who has snarled 38 of Rehore's aeriels for a total of 478 yards, while 18th in the list of pass receiving is Jim Prescott, Dickinson's sophomore star, who has been on the receiving end of 12 Rehore passes for a total of 107 yards.

Dickinson, relying strictly on its aerial circus this fall, is ranked third in the nation, its pass offense showing a total of 96 completed passes in 169 attempts for a total of 998.

Punts And Passes

[By the Associated Press]
Fort Collins, Colo.—Neither team got a credit for this quadruple pass in the Utah-Colorado State game: A little dog ran out onto the field and Referee Lou Vidal grabbed him and handed him to Umpire Bill Greim, who relayed him to Linesman Howard Johnson, who passed him to a cheerleader. The pooch wound up inside a megaphone.

St. Mary's, Calif.—The jaunt of St. Mary's college to New York for a gridiron tussle with Fordham sounds like a practical lesson in geography.

En route east the squad will inspect the Rocky mountains of Colorado, the wheat fields of western Nebraska, Chicago and historical sights in Pennsylvania. On the way home Boston, Niagara Falls, St. Louis, New Orleans, San Antonio, El Paso, Carlsbad caverns and Palm Springs will be visited.

Two weeks will be required for the journey.

Duquesne '11 Fused Talent For 'Incognito' Roles

Pittsburgh, Nov. 19 (AP)—Meet Duquesne university's "anonymity boys"—the lads who passed up chances for all-star glory to fuse their individual brilliance into team dynamite which exploded them into the national spotlight with a perfect season.

Most everyone who saw the Dukes' football powerhouse this season raved about their smoothly-meshed touchdown transmission—then tried in vain to recall the boys who produced the scores.

The Dukes preferred their "incognito" roles and developed sort of a chain lightning which struck from a different quarter every Saturday and stunned all opposition.

George Gonda is shining example No. 1 of the Dukes' "shun glory" spirit. He's a triple-play special back who can do everything with a football—yes, even make it disappear. He does that regularly in the Dukes' "hidden ball" plays.

Good enough to rouse any collegiate tub-thumper to ecstasies, George Kissed off his chance for individual glory by performing as a "back of all trades," a right half-back, a left half and a fullback as the occasion demanded.

Gonda's case parallels that of his backfield running mates. There's Phil Ahwesh, Bernie Semes, Joe Chadonic, Joe Gottlieb, Ray Harkins and Johnny Binotto to mention only a few.

Individually they are wows but like Gonda they have spurned the glory road for the team way. Yet at one time or another during the season all have played an important part in Duquesne victories.

"These kids are the most unusual gridirers I've ever coached," comments Coach Aldo (Buff) Donnell. "There's not a prima donna in the lot and each of them would

BEAR HUNTING SEASON OPENS

Harrisburg, Nov. 19 (AP)—Pennsylvania's brief but often dangerous bear hunting season opened today.

Four days is all that's allowed for the shooting of bruins, with Saturday night the deadline. Last year, the hunters bagged nearly 46 tons of bear meat. The kill was 524 bears, weighing 91,700 pounds.

Seth Gordon, executive director of the game commission said the northern tier counties abound in black bear, with a 200 or 300 pound animal considered a good kill.

Gordon said that only good marksmen and woodmen engage in this sport, so the accident percentage is low. However, he warned hunters to be "extremely careful" with firearms, especially while loading and unloading in camp, and to avoid carrying them loaded in automobiles.

"Bear hunters as a rule are safety conscious," Gordon said, and "relatively few accidents have happened during previous bear seasons."

Camp fires should be watched with special care this year, Gordon said.

"If ever the future of this great resource should be safeguarded, now is the time," he added.

"Hunt safely, return safely and prevent forest fires," he advised.

—and if you see any empty cartridges, pick them up for conversion into defense metals.

cart a water bucket if he thought that would do us the most good."

Of the whole squad, end Johnny Rokisky appears to have the best chance for all-star team rating. Friend and foe alike rank him with the best in the nation at his position.

Out of the Past

(From the Files of the Star and Sentinel and The Gettysburg Times)

TWENTY-FIVE YEARS AGO

For Summer Home: Rev. J. B. Baker has purchased from J. E. Kissinger five and one-half acres of the Kissinger farm in Cumberland township west of town. On the tract is an old stone house which he is now having repaired and put in shape for use as a summer residence. The purchase price of the ground and house was $525.

Coming Wedding: Invitations have been issued by Mr. and Mrs. John N. Hersh, of New Oxford, for the marriage of their daughter, Miss Florence S. Hersh, to Dr. George Nicholas Acker, 2nd, of New York City, on Monday evening, November 27th, at half past six o'clock. The wedding will take place at the Hersh home.

Win Good Game from Villa Nova: Gettysburg trimmed Villa Nova decisively on Nixon Field Saturday afternoon, winning by the score of 27 to 3, after the Main Line team had taken the first half 3-0. Harry Rote, Gettysburg's star quarterback, did not get into the game until the last minute of play in the second period and it was largely his work that figured in the scoring later.

Milk and Cream Rise: A substantial rise in the price of both milk and cream, effective on Wednesday, was announced by local milk dealers. Milk went from six to eight cents a quart; cream from 20 cents a quart to 30 cents.

Holland's Hope III: Little Princess Juliana, only child of Queen Wilhelmina of the Netherlands, and heir to the Dutch throne, is confined to her bed with illness. The princess is seven years old. Dutchmen become very anxious over any ailment of the little princess, as her life and that of the queen are the only things that stand between inheritance of the throne by a German prince.

Democrats Hold Good Jubilation: Adams County Democrats turned out in force for their celebration of victory Friday night and a creditable parade with plenty of local color to it resulted. The column required just ten minutes for the procession to pass a given point.

The chief marshal was H. E. Riddemose, of McKnightstown. His aides were C. C. Bream, Joseph Smith and Robert S. Bream. The committee on arrangements follows:

MATCHING MOODS

What an art acquired if we could always match the moods of Nature with out own—or better still, if we could only match our moods with those of Nature!

Glancing from my library window I see the trees about in all their Autumnal glory. What a mood of gold and delicately fashioned beauty. A silent prayer of joy goes teeming its way through every circulatory path of the body. The heart warms and invisibly smiles. I am sure. Such wonder—such wild natural acclaim.

Said Thoreau: "What if I could pray aloud, or to myself, as I went along by the brook-side, a cheerful prayer like the birds! For joy I could embrace the earth; I shall delight to be buried in it."

If we could always allow beauty to flow through the delicate paths of our brain, we would see life as though it were always bright and light. How the moods of the painter are reflected in every stroke of his brush—and how deathless are those moods. And even in the books that have been written from the heart—how you come across a thousand different moods as you follow the lines from page to page.

How suddenly one's mood change when a new environment is furnished. Many give an excuse for not doing certain things that they are not in the mood. Work puts one in the mood! It creates moods. For instance, people who make it a habit to pray, know a lot about God, because they get well acquainted with him. They try to match their mood with his, which is always one of soothing hope and comfort to the heart.

The more we expect the oftener we are placed in the mood to accept whatever is our good fortune to receive. By matching our moods with time and circumstance, and dismissing all regrets, we are placed in the mood to aspire, to climb, and to sing.

Tomorrow Mr. Adams will talk on the subject: "This Inheritance."

IF AT A LATHE

If at a lathe 'twere mine to toil,
I'd think while soothing gears with oil,

This thing and I must now combine
To bolster freedom's battle line.
No greater help our foes could ask
Than this, that we should fail our task.

If it were mine at any post
To stay where I was needed most,
I'm sure I'd think, the younger die
In freedom's name, and surely I
Can spend what time and strength remain

That none of them shall die in vain.

These older hands, this older heart
In freedom's cause can have a part.
They, too, can serve their country's needs
And have a share in glory's deeds.
They, too, to keep the flag on high
Could dare at duty's post to die.

State Needs To Provide Care For Only Few Polio Patients

690 STRICKEN; MANY ARE ABLE TO PAY OWN WAY

Harrisburg, Nov. 19 (AP)—Pennsylvania will assume the care of only a few of the 690 persons stricken with infantile paralysis this year, Dr. A. H. Stewart, acting secretary of Health, said today.

"Reports so far show only 45 or 50 persons that the state will have to provide for," he added, "but, of course, this number may be much higher when all cases are considered."

"Some persons don't need further treatment and a good many are able to pay their own way. Then, too, quite a few are not seriously affected. All this leads us to expect we will have to take care of only a relatively small number."

The secretary said he expected the federal government to contribute something.

During the outbreak, which took more than 30 lives, schools were closed in a dozen counties. Many colleges delayed their fall terms and strict bans were clamped on gatherings of young people.

Treatment for Children
Dr. J. Moore Campbell, director of Health Conservation, explained that children under 16 years old may be treated at the Crippled Children's hospital in Elizabethtown or in local orthopedic hospitals. The state pays up to $4 a day for their care.

"The orthopedic hospitals are very busy," he said, "and they just can't take care of the children who need so many operations, with usually three or four weeks of rest in between."

"Because of these conditions local hospitals have taken slight cases. We have made only limited use of these hospitals, but they are proving extremely valuable."

The state makes no financial provision for treatment of persons over 16 years old, Dr. Campbell said. The director said a survey disclosed 10 per cent of those stricken were 20, or older, while 65 per cent involved children under ten.

JUST A BROKEN LEG

Emporium, Pa., Nov. 19 (AP)—Floyd Wood, a Gardeau lumberman, limped into a physician's office. Saying he was sorry to trouble him, he asked the doctor to look over an injury he received at work. An X-ray examination disclosed Wood had a broken leg.

RIGHT NAME, PLEASE

New York—"They called me Tarzan," a husky six-foot longshoreman told Magistrate Jenkin Hockett when he and two acquaintances appeared in court after police had broken up a fist fight among them. "I don't like to be called Tarzan. I want to be called by my right name."

"What is your name?" inquired the magistrate.

"Harold Holmberg."

"From now on stop calling him Tarzan," the court admonished the two acquaintances. "Call him Harold."

He suspended sentence on the trio.

FOOT LOOSE

Philadelphia—"I've lost a foot," said John Hunt at police headquarters. The desk sergeant looked him over and asked if it hurt. "It's a mummy's foot, 3,000 years old," said Hunt. "My father brought it from Egypt. It dropped out of my brief case."

THOUGHTFULNESS REWARDED

San Francisco—Mary Mislovich's plea won her husband, Larry, a probationary sentence on a speeding charge. "We had been married only one day," the pretty bride told Municipal Judge Herbert C. Kaufman. "He was hurrying home to me with an anniversary present."

HAZARDOUS

Philadelphia—Seventy-five-year old Charles White has been working 10 years trying to perfect an automobile polish. He says he intends to continue his experiments, but not in the kitchen. A batch boiled over yesterday and started a fire which destroyed his four-room home.

COLD WINTER AHEAD

Olympia, Wash.—Mrs. L. R. Proctor was basking in the warmth of her open fireplace. Suddenly a ball of fire zoomed out of the flames and whizzed around the room. Mrs. Proctor finally caught it and put it outside—an unwise old owl with a set of thoroughly charred tail feathers.

Civil War Letter By Lincoln Brings $15,000

Philadelphia, Nov. 19 (AP)—President Lincoln's letter to General Joseph Hooker to assume command of the Army of the Potomac brought $15,000 at Monday's auction disposing of documents in the collection of the late Col. Louis J. Kolb. A copy of the Star Spangled Banner, penned and signed by Francis Scott Key, brought $7,750.

Alfred W. Stern, of Chicago, bought the Lincoln letter. In it, Lincoln said:

"I have heard, in such a way as to believe it, of your recently saying that both the Army and the government need a dictator. Of course, it was not for this, but in spite of it, that I have given you the command."

Charles A. Lindbergh's letter asking newspapermen not to interfere in attempts to establish contact with his baby's abductor, was sold to F. G. Sweet for $20.

COLD WEATHER HITS SOLDIERS ON MANEUVERS

November 12, 1941,

Base Camp, Lillesville, N. C.
The Gettysburg Times,
Gettysburg, Pa.

Dear Friends:

Today marks the final day of preparation for the oncoming maneuver period that will be the final of the present southern war games. This problem will begin the fifteenth day of this month and will last for two weeks. If, however, one army completely overcomes the other within that time the problem will be cut short. Following the last battles, soldiers will return to the respective base camps and make final arrangements and plans for the return trip to the northern camps.

The temperature here for the last week has been exceptionally cold especially for this particular region of the south and at this time of year. This morning when the men awoke the water in the buckets was frozen even within the tents. The drinking water in the lyster bag was also frozen and the ice had to be broken by the cooks in order to make hot coffee. At night some sleep in clothes that were worn throughout the day while others wrap themselves in their overcoats and pile their three army blankets over them. Several of the tents are equipped with coal oil stoves and gas stoves that were bought by the men since being down here. Early morning roll call brings many moans and groans when the final call by the bugler is sounded.

Contract Grippe

Due to the quick change in the weather many soldiers of Company E are again laid up with grippe and influenza along with many colds and chills. Three of Company E soldiers are in the Rockingham evacuation hospital this week suffering from the ailments so common here. However, none are in a serious condition and should be back to duty within the next few days. The condition of PFC "Frank" Linn, who has been confined to the Fort Bragg hospital for the last three weeks, is greatly improved and within the next several days he is anticipating his discharge. Linn was injured during a football scrimmage and is believed to be suffering from "water on the knee."

A familiar captain to many of the local soldiers presented himself over the past week-end in the 103rd Q.M. Regt. The person was Captain "Dewey" Moyer who is stationed with another Quartermaster outfit several miles from this area. Moyer is in charge of all outgoing gasoline during the present maneuver period and reported to this regiment in order to receive the report of this particular Q.M. outfit. Captain Moyer has been on war maneuvers since early in August and spent two months with the second army in the Louisiana games.

Receive Trophy

One of the highlights of the Armistice Day program was the presentation of the baseball trophy to the Quartermaster team that came from behind in a late season drive to overcome the strong 110th Infantry from Northern Pennsylvania cities. Before 20,000 soldiers and guests the trophy was presented and colorful ceremonies took place. Gettysburg boys on the winning team were Pvt. George Tate, Corporal Glenn Bream, Sergeant John Bosak and your correspondent. This was the same team that played a 1-1 tie with the Gettysburg Furniture Factory team of the Adams county league during the past season.

Private "Chester" seems to be content to spend the daytime under a few army blankets. "Chee-Chee" is wise enough to remain under until the mid-day sun comes out. For three days now she has been absent from roll call at 6 in the morning and probably when the company returns to the Gap she'll suffer the penalty with a little extra duty. However, she is still prompt at dinner and supper mess call.

Respectfully yours,

PFC Bernard A. Stock, Jr.,
Company E Reporter.

PRINTER TELLS OF SERVICE IN FOREIGN RAIDS

Some time ago composing room employees of the Gettysburg Times sent a carton of dehydrated onion flakes to the employees of the Windsor and Eton Express, Windsor, England.

The gift was acknowledged in the news columns of the British newspaper and by letter from the publisher of the paper to the Gettysburg donors.

Today George Kadwill, foreman of The Times composing room, received a letter from William Markwick, a former fellow employee of Mr. Kadwill's in Windsor, in which he again expresses his personal appreciation of the gift. The letter follows:

153 Arthur Road
Windsor
Berks

Dear George:

Here I am at last getting that letter to you. We have now started our new Fire Watching Rota and as it is my turn tonight, I thought now's the time for that letter. We have to have two volunteers from the works and one paid watchman. He starts at 9:30 p. m., but we have to begin at Black-Out time, which at present is 6:30 p. m. and continues to 7:30 a. m. the next morning, one hour for breakfast and clock in again at 8:30 a. m. This week I have it pretty stiff, two nights at the works and one night at the Police Station as I am a Special Constable.

This summer and up to the present time we have had only one warning. Jerry is busy elsewhere and he is getting a towing by all accounts. Last winter we had an anxious time, Raid Warning every night for months, in fact if we never got one we missed it. I have to report at the Station on every Warning, but night after night was too much with work next day, so now we report every fourth night on the Alarm and sleep in every 14 days or so. Jerry had paid us several visits, but fortunately the bombs dropped in gardens and fields and several in disused property, but others have badly damaged other property.

Woman Smothers Bomb

I remember one night returning home from the Station, Jerry was flying all over the town. He seemed to be everywhere. I went in for a drink and down they came. We seemed to be surrounded by fire. I slipped an overcoat on and went down and by that time things were getting warm.

One fell in my front garden under the window. I found a woman in her nightdress trying to smother it with dirt from the garden with her hands. Another was burning in the back garden. We let that one burn out, but we were kept busy carrying water for the next house. They had one go right through the house from roof to the ground floor and was well away. After an anxious half-hour we managed to put it out. There was no more sleep that night. Several had fires but no one was hurt that night, but we have had several killed and many injured.

Saw London Fire

We came through last winter. Whatever Jerry may do in the future it cannot be worse than what has been done. We could hear the London barrage and watch the flares and bursting shells over London. One bomber was shot down just outside the (Censored) and a fighter brought down in the (Censored).

I am proud to tell you my son is in the Air Force with a Night-Fighter unit and he is seeing a bit of life, but it's all hush, hush.

I must now thank you for your kind gift. It was a grand thought, but then you're a grand people. There isn't a day goes by but what we hear of something you are doing to help and we are grateful beyond words.

My wife says that shopping is a nightmare. You cannot buy oranges if you are registered for onions; you cannot have this or that if you are not registered for sugar with some shops. It looks as if we shall go without oranges and lemons for the duration, as we have no children young enough to buy them for, but what gets my goat is people with young children making a tour of several shops buying oranges when obtainable and reselling them.

Many Are Fined

My allotment had done fine. I shall have plenty of onions, carrots, beetroot and potatoes to last me all winter. Tomatoes were plentiful, but not enough sun to ripen them, so we must do our best to ripen them indoors. They were a terrible price in the shops till they were controlled and then they disappeared from the shops. But some were still getting them. It's the same with many things, but they are being rounded up and fined pretty heavy.

Several of our mates here have gone into the Army, Navy or Air Force and served or are waiting their turn. I sometimes wonder if I am due for another dose. Work here had been fairly steady, but paper is very difficult to get and you must get a license for everything. Well, I have got this off my chest at last. I wish you all the best and please remember me to all at the works. The best of health and luck to everyone for we think you're a "grand bunch."

Yours faithfully,
W. Markwick

COMMITTEE DIVIDED

Harrisburg, Nov. 19 (AP)—A politically-divided committee of legislators resumed conferences today on reappointing the state's congressional districts, but the members said they were in "hopeful disagreement." Adding to the difficulty of finding an agreeable proposal for cutting the districts from 34 to 33, was the state's rising income—which some think will be reflected in any special session called by the governor to enact a congressional reapportionment bill.

INQUIRY NEARS END

White Hill, Pa., Nov. 19 (AP)—The investigation into the administration of the White Hill Industrial school will be completed Wednesday or Thursday, says Judge Fred S. Reese, chairman of the committee making the study. The final report to Governor James will require considerable time after that, he said. The inquiry was requested by Superintendent Henry C. Hill as a result of what he called "glaring inaccuracies" of certain news articles following the fatal shooting of a fleeing inmate.

Lucy Monroe To Open Waynesboro Concerts

LUCY MONROE

Gettysburg Concert association members next Tuesday will have their first opportunity to avail themselves of the advantages extended by the Waynesboro association of attending Waynesboro concerts on Gettysburg tickets.

The first number on the Waynesboro season program will be Lucy Monroe, successful young American soprano, who will appear in the Waynesboro senior high school auditorium Tuesday evening at 8:15 o'clock. Gettysburg association members will be admitted simply by presenting their local membership cards.

Selections by such composers as Haydn, Handel, Ardit, Saint-Saens, Debussy, Faure, Bemberg, Gounod, Klemm, Herbert Hughes and Johann

Strauss are included in her program for the Waynesboro concert. One section of the program will be presented by her noted piano accompanist, Gibner King.

Miss Monroe today is known as "Music's Ambassador of Patriotism and Americanism." On September 24 of this year she was appointed by the War department to the Music Advisory committee of the Joint Citizens' Committee for the Army and Navy and in this capacity is spending much time in working out plans for the music programs of both the Army and the Navy.

She is a native New Yorker and her voice is entirely American trained. In her teens she sang leading operetta roles on Broadway and graduated to opera in 1934. Her success with the most prominent opera companies in the country has led to many important radio engagements on coast-to-coast networks.

Defense Preparations Will Have Little Effect On 26th Farm Show

MACHINERY TO GET ATTENTION, LIGHT BELIEVES

By WICK TEMPLE

Harrisburg, Nov. 19 (AP)—The last war failed to halt the Pennsylvania Farm show and state authorities are confident current defense preparations will have little effect in the 26th revival of the event next January 19-23.

"We expect interest to be as great as any year," Agriculture Secretary John H. Light declared. "Attendance reached a half million at the last show and we expect as good if not better at the next one. The defense program doesn't seem to have any dampening influence."

With a definite labor shortage on the farm, Light said farmers were mechanizing more than ever and he looked for more interest in the gigantic exposition's farm machinery section.

Expect Good Cattle Display
"Livestock exhibits probably will be as great as ever," added the secretary. "Last year there were 1,312 head of cattle at the show, more than 4,000 poultry and 260 hogs. Early indications are that interest will be as great as ever in those sections."

Premium list for the event now is in the hands of printers and is expected to be completed within a week. It totaled more than $49,000 for the 25th anniversary exhibition and Light said it would be about the same for the January show.

Reservations and inquiries for exhibition display space already are being received and Light said they compared favorably with last year at the same time although that show took the lead for early action on the part of exhibitors.

From Gettysburg comes word the Adams County Fruit Growers association may not be able to place an apple display due to growers not saving enough for selecting the 15-bushel display of five leading varieties. Fruit from the county has carried off prizes consistently the past five years.

Exhibition Plan Changed
Arrangements are going ahead, however, for one of the greatest displays of farm products at the 14-acre plant here where work is constantly proceeding to maintain and improve the largest building of its kind under one roof.

Changes have been made in the main floor exhibition plan with spaces regrouped to allow for better display of some of the agricultural products. The new plan also overcomes congested traffic conditions on each side of the vast exhibition floor in that it eliminates dead end isles and permits crowds to pass directly into entrances leading from the main floor.

Much more than just a state fair, the farm show is a huge state agricultural exposition free to the public. Annually upwards of 300 commercial exhibitors as well as educational institutions and farm organizations buy space on the main floor and the arena with many exhibitors being turned away for lack of space. Exhibits in all departments except poultry are limited to Pennsylvania.

Beginnings Are Obscured
The beginnings of the event are hard to trace. As far back as 1838 the Philadelphia Society for the Promotion of Agriculture held an exhibit of farm products and livestock. During intervening years various agricultural associations held like expositions. Ultimately the Pennsylvania show was organized as a result of activities undertaken by various fair organizations and institutions.

It has become an inspiration not only to producers but to all the Commonwealth's citizens. Hundreds of county and community fairs and farm products shows are held in the state each year with a majority

Committee Recommendations
The opening address of the morning was brought by the Rev. A. R. Longanecker, Gettysburg, who spoke on the theme, "The Advent Message." This was followed by the report of the committee on social missions in charge of chairman, the Rev. Dwight F. Putman.

This committee presented a series of recommendations to the conference relative to the church's place in this present world conflict. The recommendations which definitely stated the position of the conference and were unanimously adopted, were as follows:

1. "Be it resolved, that it is the conviction of this conference that our country can best serve the cause of future peace among the peoples of the earth by adopting and adhering steadfastly to a peaceful relationship with other nations during the present conflict, and that to that end we appeal to our leaders of government and pray to God that our nation may be preserved from a state of war."

2. "That this conference lay upon the consciences of our ministers the solemn task of guarding with utmost care against all efforts and temptations to use the pulpit as a war propaganda center, and the church as an agency of the state to promote an all-out war program."

The morning session was closed with a presentation by Mrs. Mable Penner, associate secretary of the board of parish and church schools, who spoke on the theme, "The Children of the Church." She outlined the church's program regarding the children within the congregations, and set forth recommendations for the adoption of the "Children of the Church" program.

The closing session of the annual conference assembled at 1:30 p. m. with devotions in charge of the Rev. C. I. Rowe.

The first presentation was made by the Rev. Edwin Moll, general secretary of the board of foreign missions. Dr. Moll spoke on the theme, "The Lutheran Church in a World of Crisis." A brief discussion period followed this presentation revealed facts relative to the present situation and prospect of foreign mission work in the Lutheran fields of the Lutheran church.

Several reports by standing committees of the conference were then presented.

The closing message of the conference was brought by Dr. Charles F. Sanders, emeritus head of the Department of Philosophy, Gettysburg college, on the theme, "The Ministry in a Decadent Age."

Consider Rural Work
Dr. Sanders presented with vigor and clarity the salient points of opposition that are rampant in the world today and indicated that the ministry and the church at large must stand firm in the faith of their fathers.

The closing moments of synod were devoted to a consideration of the work of the rural church. A series of recommendations prepared by a committee on town and country churches was presented. Among some of the major items proposed for conference and synod consideration were the introduction of definite courses on rural sociological programs at the Lutheran seminary, Gettysburg; the establishment of a permanent standing committee on the work of town and country churches; the promotion of the work of the short course for town and country pastors being held at Pennsylvania State college each year, and support of the work of the Pennsylvania country life conference. Suggestions also were offered for the establishment of a full time superintendent for rural work in the Central Pennsylvania synod.

Talks on Youth Program

thereby reducing the Christian church to something less than the church whose head is the Christ, whose gospel is one of reconciliation and love, and whose symbol is the Cross."

3. "That we hold it to be the bounden duty of the church and of all Christians to respect and defend the rights of the individual conscience, even though not agreeing with its position, and to maintain an unbroken fellowship with our brethren in the faith who are suffering, and with those who will suffer, at the hands of the state or of their fellowmen, for conscience sake."

The conference went on record that these three recommendations set forth their unanimous stand on these important issues and also decided to make the entire report of the committee available to the members of conference as well as publish in the press.

Contractors Learn Of Metal Shortage

Harrisburg, Nov. 19 (AP)—H. E. Foreman, managing director of the National Associated General Contractors, expressed the opinion that 4 1/2 million men eventually would be thrown out of work by inability of builders to obtain metal.

Curtailment of non-defense construction, he told the annual convention of the Pennsylvania branch, Inc., Associated Contractors, will be a prime factor in unemployment.

"The Office of Production Management has stated that the nation produces 86 million tons of steel a year at the present rate, of which 35 million tons are needed for defense," said Foreman. "That leaves 51 million tons for other purposes—purposes which, in 1940, required only 48 million tons.

OFFICER LAUDS HOSPITALITY OF SOUTHERN FOLK

Dear Parents:
So you want to know what your soldier-son is doing and how he is being treated in the Carolinas, eh? Well, take it from me, you can ally any and all fears you've harbored about his welfare, for in short, believe me, he's doing allright.

Down in this vast stretch of pine-dotted and sandy wasteland, your son is being accorded regal treatment. He's being pampered, petted, coddled, and generally speaking, receiving treatment that is the acme of graciousness and kindness.

When you see your son after his return from the "wars" don't be surprised if he demands plush-lined coasters on his favorite lounging chair. And Dear Parents, if he hollers like a baby "cutting" teeth when he sits down to breakfast, you can't argue that I didn't warn you that instead of an average young man's "mess" such as fruit, cereal and coffee (or milk) he'll be making pained noises for fried chicken or creamed squab on toast as the piece de resistance on the morning menu.

Glorify Soldier
That's what these native folks are serving your son when he accepts an invitation to share a "simple Southern-style week-end" with them. I tell you the northern soldier is being glorified down in this neck of the woods. And naturally enough he's a problem to the Army when he reports for duty Monday morning. He gets irritable; he pouts, and sometimes even shows a reluctant attitude toward answering the reveille call because he figures he's been deprived of the continuation of a "pleasant dream."

Yes, these Southern folk, Dear Parents, seem resolutely bent on spoiling your son. They have been even suggesting to adopt your boy, and here all the time your son opined he was entering a "battleground" of prejudice, nasty thoughts and wholesale maliciousness. He had an idea his Yankee characteristics would betray his humaneness and make him a marked man in this sector of our good old United States of America. Instead he has found a veritable Utopia for homesick soldiers on week-end "leave" from duty. The gentle attention given him by these southern folk has made him as docile as a lamb; even the roughest of 'em.

All Are Heroes
Mind you, too, your soldier-sons are beginning to refute our historians. In grammar school the read that Grant "took Richmond." Think you can make them believe that today? Umph! Not on your life. He's beginning to think he and his buddies "took it" along with a host of other cities and towns. Know why? Because in uniform he's a hero to these southerners. He represents something noble. He's a conqueror in every sense of the word. He's an exemplary citizen; proud to wear the khaki. The southerners have made him feel this way. Not that the northerners haven't, understand, but being a stranger in "these yere parts" he just wondered what sort of a reception he would get. You can believe me he's doing allright.

The enlisted personnel of the 103rd QM will never forget "this week-end" in Greensboro, North Carolina. Probably they've already told you something about it. How the citizenry of that fine southern community literally threw open its portals to your boys; how it had nine dances arranged for your sons and other sons of the "28th Division" the evening of the day we arrived there for week-end billeting, how amicable and hospitable the folk were there—and have been since—in offering to "take as many boys as they could accommodate for Sunday dinner; and the steady flow of invitations that have since that memorable day flooded the Division Chaplain's office, asking that "their boys be sent back to spend more time with them. My Dear Parents, you should be proud that your sons are members of such a reputable division and their behavior has been such that they are loved by the entire south.

That's an example of Southern hospitality, the variety your son is getting today. Believe me, Dear Parents, he's doing allright.

"Striet Army"
But what about the military side of his life down here you ask, eh? Well, the Army is just that, it's still the "Army." In more clarified terms, you know as well as I do, that the Army is a disciplined organization. It has to be. As a soldier your son is being taught to obey, to help himself and his fellow soldiers, to accustom himself to many personal sacrifices, to cement allegiance to his country, to learn to handle a gun properly, to know how to use it, how to protect himself, and generally anything that falls under the military code. For one thing they're making a man out of him; that to you and the country in general is important. He's fast becoming an exemplary citizen! We needn't dwell on that point. We still say, however, he's doing allright.

To your son, likewise to me, these "maneuvers" are an enigmatic thing. Probably we're not to know too much about them. They involve vital military secrets. It's obvious we soldiers derive some benefit from them. It's a different kind of training. Your sons drill, camp and are subjected to multiple discomforts, but so are the officers. We're one big family determined to do one thing, that is to prepare ourselves to defend our country. Training is essential; maneuver training adds immeasurably, though some of your sons may doubt it. But that isn't to be questioned so long as your son has done no harm. He's ready if we go to war.

"Doing Allright"
"Down here" he's learning to "Drive By Night" and he's doing very well despite dust-cloaked conditions and blackouts; he's bathing when he can and still keeping clean; he's eating well, though he might complain about mess kits not being the best type of "platter" to eat from; he's traversing different country and acclimating himself to it; he's learning to do things in a safe and sane manner, thus holding the division accident reports to a minimum of casualties; he's learning to be affable most of the time because he's forced to live with so many different-tempered people; and he's learning too that so long as he is "obliged to serve" he might as well make his time worthwhile.

So believe me, Dear Parents, your sons are DOING ALLRIGHT!

Chorus Girl Becomes Mrs. Manville No. 5

New York, Nov. 19 (AP)—Seat D113 at the Broadhurst theater last night held one very blonde, very white-ermined and very happy young woman—Mrs. Tommy Manville 5th.

She laughed at Sophie Tucker's jokes in "High Kickers" and enjoyed even more the antics of the chorus line.

For she had just stepped out of that same chorus line and changed her name from plain Bonita Edwards, showgirl, to Mrs. Thomas Franklin Manville, Jr., which is something else again.

Yep, Tommy's done it again.

Yesterday was the day, the scene Ridgefield, Connecticut, with Justice J. J. O'Brien doing the honors.
